RESPONSIBLE GAMBLING AND SELF EXCLUSION

Even though We provide Services for your entertainment, We acknowledge and appreciate that online gaming can cause issues or problems for some people. The likely problems range from spending too much money to developing a strong gambling addiction. We are fully committed to building a responsible environment for all our content and We follow and maintain industry standards with respect to these requirements.

Basic principles of responsible gaming

- Play for fun, not to make money. If You gamble, the result is never certain and losing is always a possibility. So look at gambling as entertainment, not a source of income;
- Know how the game works and what the odds are before playing. The more You know about the games, the better equipped You are to make informed decisions before and while You play;
- Set a budget and stick to it. Keeping it fun means playing within your means. When You set and stick to a budget, You spend only money You can afford to lose.
- Don't chase losses. Accept them as the cost of entertainment. Wondering if You can win back losses by playing more? Chances are the more You play, the more money You'll lose. "Chasing losses" almost always leads to bigger losses.
- Balance gambling with other types of leisure activities. Finding other types of entertainment to enjoy will help make sure that gambling doesn't become your main activity or too big a part of your life.
- Take frequent breaks. Every once in a while, it's a good idea to walk away from the game You're playing. Taking a break can help You make smarter decisions so gambling stays what it should be – a fun activity.

- Set a time limit before You play. When You make a plan for how much time You can afford to spend gambling (and stick to it), You are more likely to stay within your set budget and not miss out on the other things You need to do.

It can be difficult to know whether your gambling habits are problematic or not, but there are some signs to look out for:

- You play for more than You thought.
- Your gaming interferes with your social life and/or work.
- You have struggled with calming down or stopping your gambling without success.
- You regularly lie about or try to hide, your gaming from friends and/or family.
- You have an idea that a big win will solve your problems.
- You borrow money to play or to repay gambling debts.

If You have further questions about the process and what steps you may take to overcome gambling problems, please contact Us.
